Is this the course for me?

This course is aimed at students who are employed or intend to gain employment in a boatyard or within the marine leisure industry. The course is a programme-led apprentice scheme which delivers the technical certificate and keyskills required by the marine industry.

What do I need to join the course?

City & Guilds 2451 Boat Construction, Maintenance and Support Certificate Level 2 and/or Mature students with appropriate trade experience and enthusiasm will be considered.

What will I be doing?

The course duration is two years, one day per week.
Attendance will be on a Thursday.

How long will the course last?

This course is delivered as a part time day release for two years.

You will gain the City & Guilds 2451 Boat Construction, Maintenance and Support Certificate at level 3

City & Guilds 2451 Level 3 Boat Construction, Maintenance and Support

Consists of 4 units; 2 core units and 2 optional units:

Core Units

Unit 1 Safe and effective working in a boatbuilding, repair and service environment

Unit 2 Boat building repair and service materials technology

Optional Units

Unit 3 Production of finishing of hulls and decks

Unit 4 Producing and fitting structural components

You will follow a broad based work related programme which will give you an understanding of the principles and the practical skills required by the modern tradesperson. You will have some classroom study, but mainly you will carry out workshop activities in boat production and repair.

In addition to this, you will cover health and safety, engineering drawing and lofting skills.

As part of a project you will have the opportunity to build a half size boat. Students that excel will also have the chance to work on the restoration of Christopher Cockerell's 'Spray', the launch used for experiments, which lead to the development of the world famous Hovercraft.

How will my progress on the course be assessed?

Examinations are taken for the City & Guilds Boat Construction, Maintenance & Support Certificate. Practical test pieces are assessed in our workshops.

What will it cost?

To be discussed at interview

Students under 19 do not pay tuition or exam fees

Students claiming income-based benefits may receive a discount on tuition fees, but will be liable for full registration/examination fees.

And the future?
